

I am opposed to the use of cell phones on airborne aircraft. Because of the "captive" nature of being restricted to a specific seat, people who are sitting next to cell-phone users do not have the ability to remove themselves from the annoyance of constant chatter. In flight phones are already available on many flights and provides the opportunity to communicate in really pressing situations.